

QUESTIONS TO ASK YOUR POTENTIAL WEBSITE DESIGNER

---

I recently came across someone's post online that gave "44 questions to ask before hiring a website designer". I'll tell you what. If you find a website designer who has time to answer 44 questions as to why you should hire them, you might not want to take that chance.

Here are some basic questions you can ask someone you are interviewing. This should get a good conversation going, and give you an idea of who it is you're talking to.

---

Designer Name:
Contact info:

	RECORD YOUR ANSWERS
Question:	How do you best like to communicate? Phone? Email? Text?
Answer:
Question:	What platform do you use or recommend for my situation and why?
Answer:
Question:	Have you made any websites on this platform before? May I look at them?
Answer:
Question:	How much money will it cost me, besides what I'm paying you (hosting, domain, additional marketing assets like pictures or fonts)?
Answer:
Question:	How long do you think it will take to make this website?
Answer:
Question:	Are you making this website yourself, or will you have someone else doing the work?
Answer:
Question:	What do you need from me?
Answer:
Question:	And here's a tricky one: what kind of clients do you work best with?
Answer:	